New Residence.

Mr. E. C. Bogie, of College Hill, has been awarded the contract to build a handsome residence for Robt. Turpin at Red House.

His dollars to doughnuts that you will forget to hand us "Our Dollar" if you come to town.

Thaw Free.

Judge Hendrick declared that he would hold in accord with the verdict of the jury that Harry Thaw was sane. He entered judgment accordingly granting Thaw his freedom. An appeal has been asked by the State. Thaw was required to execute a bond in the sum of $35,000.00.

This will probably end the case. For nine years this case has been before the courts in one form or another.

Floods.

Madison county was visited by heavy rain falls on the south side on the Silver, Paint Lick, and Red Lick creeks. The water came in torrents and rose rapidly. Residence and stores were flooded and property loss is great. Berea and vicinity suffered severely. The lands on Red Lick were badly worked and crops greatly damaged. Hay stacks were carried down the stream, water gaps and bridges washed out and general havoc wrought to small crops. The same is true of Red House and the streams of that vicinity in a smaller way. The entire county has been rain soaked for several days and much damage has been done to crops, especially the wheat crop. It is feared that it will sprout in the shock. However Thursday's sun and unusual heat may save it.

BIRTHS

James Judy Hamilton is the name of a young gentleman who arrived Wednesday July 14 to make his home with Mr. and Mrs. Shelby Hamilton. Both mother and son are doing well. The father is wearing that smile that wont come off.

DEATHS

The remains of Cyrus Park, who died of pneumonia at his home in Excelsior Springs on Monday morning July 12, about 5 o'clock, were brought to Liberty Tuesday afternoon and buried in Fairview cemetery, after funeral services at the Christian church by Rev. J. P. Jones, assisted by Elder A. B. Jones and J. P. Greene. Brief services were held at the home in Excelsior Springs, by Rev. Jesse and Dr. C. R. Nisbet, before the body was brought to Liberty.

The deceased was born in Madison county, Kentucky, September 7, 1838, where he remained until married, January 2, 1868, to Miss Mary E. Cobb, when they came to Missouri, settling in Clay county a few miles east of Liberty, where Mr. Park engaged in farming and stock raising. He came to Liberty to reside 1870, where the family lived until 1897, going then to Excelsior Springs, where they have since resided.

Mr. Park was a devoted member of the Christian church and a man who was always on the right side of moral questions. He was a good citizen and a true friend, and the many old friends in Liberty and elsewhere sympathize with the family.

The wife and daughter, Miss Jessie survive. He has three brothers living, William O. Waller and Charles of Kansas City, and two sisters, Miss Lucy of Kansas City and Mrs. A. L. Norfleet of Oklahoma City. Sumner Park, a brother died in Kansas City, about a year ago. "The Tribune" Liberty Missouri.

Mr. Park was a son of Joshua Park formerly of this county and was a nephew of Mr. George W. Park now in this city. He married a sister of Mr. Jesse Cobb, a prominent farmer of Berea and is a cousin of Col. T. E. Baldwin of Speedwell, an extensive land owner.

PRESIDENT TO HASTEN REPLY

Orduna Case Given as Reason
For Quick Action.

TO STAND FIRM ON POLICY

New Move Indicates That the Most Decisive Action of the War on the Russian Front Is Now Pending—
Calm on West Front.

Washington, July 19.—As a result of President Wilson's arrival in Washington today, it is expected that step by step the government in the management of its foreign relations. The president will confer with Secretary Lansing and will meet all of his cabinet at the White House on Tuesday. Both the president and his advisers have had a week in which to consider the problem confronting them, and there is no doubt here but that Tuesday noon will see the basis of the American course agreed upon.

It is well known that he is coming solely for the purpose of directing the answer which this government is to make to the German note of ten days ago in which the German government failed to meet any of the demands, twice made upon her by President Wilson, in regard to submarine operations. There is little doubt that the end of the week will see the American note on its way to Berlin.

While the president's advisers are for the most part convinced that the American people are not demanding or expecting of their government any rash or drastic action at this time, the conviction is shared by all of them that the country has certainly made it plain that there must be no yielding of the stand on principle taken in the earlier notes. Members of the president's official family also are keenly aware of a phase of the situation of which it is believed the general public has taken less thought; that is that the time has come for the United States not only to answer the last German note, but also to determine on the course to be pursued should Germany again cause the destruction of American lives in violation of the hitherto unquestioned rights of neutrals on the high seas. It is this phase of the situation which is causing the deepest concern here. It is felt that while it is not difficult to outline the kind of a reply which the last note from Germany merits, it is a delicate problem to determine what further action this government should take in the event of more American being made victims of German submarines.

The Orduna case, it was said here, makes even more imperative careful decisions as to the course in the future. The attack on the British liner, without warning, when she was bound to the coast of England, has served completely to dispel the illusion that Germany was not really going to attack any more passenger ships. This case shows, it is declared, that the president and his advisers must have a decision here this week, with the fact fully in mind, that any day is likely to bring forth a case requiring that the action to be agreed upon shall be taken.

The president arrived here without a single suggestion to indicate his attitude regarding the issue with Germany in its present phase.

FEAR SPYS IN NAVY YARD

Man Arrested in the Brooklyn Navy
Yard as Result of Scare.

New York, July 19.—Unusual vigilance is being exercised at the Brooklyn navy yard, following the "spy" scare at the League Island navy yard, at Philadelphia. It has resulted in the arrest of George McLaughlin of Brooklyn, in the yard. The man was wandering about in an aimless manner when one of the guards saw him. He followed him for some distance and when he had doubled on his tracks several times, was accosted by the guard.

The arrest was made near the marine barracks. McLaughlin was placed in the guard house. He appeared to be demented and could give no reason for his presence.

McLaughlin was then taken before the commandant, Rear Admiral Usher, and during the course of his questioning he said that he was a former workman in the yard. The commandant ordered him held pending further examination. His record will also be looked up.

TEUTONS BEGIN
BIG OFFENSIVE

Hurl Army of Millions Against the Russians.

FORCING CZAR'S ARMY BACK

German Attack on Orduna Makes Necessary For Note to State Action In Event More Americans Are Slaughtered
by Submarines.

London, July 19.—A gigantic German offensive, which has been started against the whole Russian front, dominates the war interest.

A correspondent of the Times telegraphs from Warsaw that in his opinion the most decisive action of the war on the Russian front is pending on the hundred-mile-wide tract between the Vistula and the Bug. The correspondent heard everywhere of the piecemeal disappearance of Austro-German forces and the concentration of a great army in that area.

It is figured that between six and seven million men are engaged from the Baltic to Bessarabia. The German operations in the north are in the hands of General von Hindenburg, while General von Mackensen controls the southern front. General von Falkenhayn apparently is in supreme charge of the task of coordinating the movements of both groups of armies.

The following report was issued from Berlin concerning the Russian campaign.

"The offensive movement begun a few days ago in the eastern theater of war, under command of Field Marshal von Hindenburg, has led to great results. The army of Gen. von Benloy, which on July 14 crossed the Windau river, near and north of Kumburg, continued its victorious advance. Eleven officers and 2,440 men were taken prisoners and three cannon and five machine guns were captured.

The army of Gen. von Gallwitz proceeded against the Russian positions in the district south of Kumburg, Olawa. After a brilliant attack three Russian lines were pierced. Dzieln was captured and Lipa was reached and attacked. The Russians retreated after the evacuation of Przasnysk to the 14th to their line of defense from Ciechanow to Krasnasil, lying behind them.

On the 15th the German troops also took the enemy positions by storm and pierced the position south of Zielona, forcing their opponents to retreat. The Russians have retreated on the center front, between the Pissa and Vistula rivers, in the direction of the Narva.

Southeastern theater of war: After the Teutonic host had taken during the last few days a series of Russian positions on the River Bug and the Vistula, important battles developed on this entire front, under the leadership of Field Marshal Mackensen. "So far twenty-eight officers and 6,380 men have fallen into our hands, and nine machine guns have been captured. West of the upper Vistula the offensive has again been begun by the army of Gen. von Woytowicz.

From Paris comes a report of a night of comparative calm on the western front was followed by an artillery action of considerable violence about Souchez, infantry actions favorable to the French on the heights of the Meuse, and a German attack with burning liquids at the ravine of Sonvaux north of Verdun. On the heights of the Meuse the French recaptured one section of the trenches taken by the Germans and the German attacks north of Verdun was repulsed with heavy losses to the Germans. The latter fired a dozen shells of large calibre into Arras.

LEO FRANK MAY SURVIVE WOUND

Patient's Wonderful Vitality In His Favor.

CONDITION YET CRITICAL

Was Stabbed In the Throat by Convict
Who Believed He Was Acting Under
Divine Inspiration—Now Regrets
His Act.

Milledgeville, Ga., July 19.—Leo M. Frank, who was stabbed in the throat as he slept at night at the state prison, is declared to be holding his own.

Frank's condition is still critical, however. The wound is deep and long. There is danger of infection, and blood poisoning.

Some of the best surgeons of the state have been in attendance on him since the cutting. Dr. Rosenberg, the Frank family's private physician, of Atlanta, arrived and after inspecting the wound, stated that the operation had been a success and that the patient was doing splendidly.

Frank's wonderful vitality is again standing out prominently in his favor. He was conscious throughout the operation that required about three hours' work.

"I have nothing to fear if I die," Frank said. "I am not afraid to die. Nothing stands between me and God. I hope that the man who attacked me will be forgiven."

Green, a life term convict from Muscogee county, who was sent from Columbus, Ga., more than two years ago for murder, gives as his motive for cutting Frank's throat, "a strange feeling that Frank should be put out of the way."

Green's record as a dangerous man was known to the superintendent of the state prison farm and to the guards.

"We watched Green all the time," said Superintendent Smith. "We considered him dangerous and easily excited, yet never dreamed that he would attack a fellow convict."

"Green was a great reader from the Bible. He claims to have gotten his inspiration to kill Frank from the Bible and in a dream though we suspect that he has been talking with convicts. He says now he regrets what he did."

It appears that Green's attack is simply the work of a fanatic. Green says he was "influenced by no one."

Should Frank survive, as doctors now say is more than possible, he will owe his life to two convict doctors.

These doctors are J. W. McNaughton of Swainsboro, convicted of murder after four trials and sentenced to imprisonment, and Dr. L. M. Harrison of Columbus, who is doing a long term.

They were in the same dormitory with Frank when Frank uttered a cry of pain from his wound. Dr. McNaughton and Harrison hurried to his bedside and partially checked the flow of blood until the prison surgeon, Dr. Compton, arrived. He would have bled to death, it is generally believed, if this quick work had not been accomplished.

Frank was taken to the prison farm just four weeks ago after a midnight flight in custody of Sheriff Mangum of Atlanta.

Reports from Atlanta are that Gov. Harris would start an investigation of the affair at once.

MRS. THAW IS NOT WORRIED

Mother of Harry Thaw Looks For Arrival Home of Son.

Pittsburg, July 19.—Mrs. William Thaw, although steadily assuring questioners that she was not worried about Harry's trip to Atlantic City, instead of coming to his home here, had a talk with him by long distance telephone before Harry had left that resort for Philadelphia.

"Harry will be home in a day or two," said Mrs. Thaw after her talk.

"We agreed that the exact time should not be set, so that he might have a chance to slip home without there being any such demonstrations as there were in New York and Atlantic City. Harry assured me that he was feeling fine and that he had everything to make him comfortable. I really think it would be best for him to stay at Atlantic City while it is so hot and stuffy here."

ZAPATA DYNAMITES TRAIN

Ties Up Railroad Between Vera Cruz
and Mexico City.

Puebla, Mexico (via Havana), July 19.—General Carranza's effort to re-open traffic between Vera Cruz and Mexico City, immediately after re-occupation of Mexico City, resulted in a tieup of the entire railroad system. Zapata troops, operating near Apizaco dynamited a train loaded with government officials and thirty-five were killed and forty wounded.

The explosion threw the bodies hundreds of feet away from the train. Most of those killed were members of prosperous families.

The Zapata troops carried to the mountains a number of women and the postoffice employees aboard the train.

LOOKOUT FOR TYPHOID FEVER.

Now is typhoid fever time. It is well for the City and County Health Boards to pick their eyes and keep them open. The weeds should be cut on all vacant lots and the streets and alleys should have all rubbish removed. The breeding places of mosquitoes, should be drained if possible and if it is impossible to drain them, they should be covered with oil. Why should this city be allowed to become a breeding place for such pestiferous creatures? For many years, the citizens have been trying to get rid of certain old, worthless ponds which are of no value to anyone and which are exceedingly annoying both because of malarial troubles as well as contagion for many fevers. These ponds have been condemned by health boards but the administrative forces of the city fail to carry out the orders of the board. It is the duty of the Mayor to see that these orders are obeyed.

The Water and Light Co., should at once see that all dead ends to their water mains are properly drained and fresh water put in the same. If they fail to do so, the Mayor should see that proper penalties are meted out to them. This is a source of typhoid fever and should be well guarded. The muddy fluid that we get after each rain, is a suggestion that there should be established without delay a filtering plant. It might be well to look after the ice supply also.

An ounce of prevention is worth pounds of cure.

THE PRIMARY.

The election is not over, nor is there a band wagon passing by. Elections are won and lost at the eleventh hour sometimes.

In the Governor's race, all the candidates have many friends and strong supporters in the local field. The other State candidates have not attracted much attention because they are overshadowed by the Governor's race and the Circuit Judge's race.

Our local candidate Mr. H. H. Colyer should not be forgotten or overlooked. His opponent has no claim on us. A vote lost by negligence will hurt him that much. Therefore, look well to your ballot and stamp it for him.

In the Circuit Judge's race both gentlemen are so well known that it would be audacious presumption for us to suggest to the voters, arguments in favor of either. The life of both men lies before you. Both have made enviable reputations for themselves in their respective official careers.

In the smaller offices, the candidates are showing great activity. Taking the county and city as a whole, Madison county has had a most thorough cultivation and there are no political weeds left.

SEWERS.

Richmond has decided that Main street shall be paved on certain blocks. Before the work is done, it would be well to look after the sewerage. Richmond must have an up-to-date sewerage system. It can be constructed at a moderate cost. Before the brick streets are constructed, is the time to see after this work. The Stanleyites claim Madison county by a 65 per cent vote. Dry men, to the roads and bushes. This county is dry in sentiment. Let's not allow it to go wet on the vote. Work, hard work will carry it dry. The tax question will take care of itself.

FROM OUT OF THE EARTH

We republish below an editorial from the Wall Street Journal. The facts stated must have a beneficial effect upon those who are oppressed by a feeling of pessimism and look upon the future of this country with doubt: If anyone feels depressed over the effect of war upon business, it will do him good to take a look at the harvest prospects. He will see a promise near fulfillment of one of the greatest winter wheat crops ever harvested and, with spring wheat in splendid condition and nature favoring it, a total wheat yield of 963,000,000 bushels. Never has this country seen such a harvest as this. It even amounts to one-fourth the world's production of wheat and with an assured market at a remunerative price, the whole country must feel its stimulating effect.

Oats and barley are striving to surpass their former records, with every prospect of coming under the wire as winners. Grass and forage crops, which supply pasturage, fodder and ensilage for the country's greatest industry, all look well. We should watch these crops with more interest than we do, because they exert an enormous influence upon the country's welfare.

An abundant corn crop gives the country a feeling akin to that of having money in the bank. It seems to make a foundation for confidence. Who can look at the corn prospect and not feel the better for it? True, drought and extreme heat in the next six weeks may change the prospect. On the other hand merely normal summer conditions will raise the crop above the present level and, with the large acreage, ordinary conditions throughout the season will assure a magnificent yield.

Taking the list of minor crops, of which the business world thinks little, but which add many millions to the purchasing power of the rural communities, it will be seen that they too are doing their little best to make our basic industry bulk bigger than ever in this year of destruction.

Aside from cotton, all must command prices above the ordinary. To the high prices nature is promising to add large yields. Billions of new wealth will come from the soil this season. If the future looks dark to any business man, let him gaze for a few moments at the panorama of the crops. It is like the sunshine breaking through the clouds.

We have been taken to task for the statement that the City spent for its government last year from January to January the sum of $65,000.00. In order that the people may know who is right, we print the financial report of the treasury where he summarizes the same.

| RECAPITULATION. | |
|-----------------|-------------|
| Total Receipts. | |
| General Fund | $46,697.63 |
| School Fund | $13,446.11 |
| Sinking Fund | $15,722.70 |

| Total Disbursements. | |
|------------------------------|-------------|
| General Fund | $47,864.64 |
| School Fund | $12,373.86 |
| Sinking Fund | $12,454.53 |
| Dec. 31 1914, Bal. in Treas. | $ 3,173.41 |

Total $75,866.44

The bonded indebtedness of the City of Richmond is now $20,000 for School Bonds, payable as follows:

$1,000 on each January 1st, for the years 1916, 1917, 1918, 1919, 1920. $1,500 on each January 1st, for the years 1921, 1922, 1923, 1924, 1925, 1926, 1927, 1928, 1929, 1930.

Respectfully Submitted,
L. P. Evans, City Treas.

December 31, 1914.
There should be taken from this total sum of $75,866.44 the sum of $11,500.00, money borrowed from the State Bank and Trust Co., which was repaid to it, which leaves a total balance of $64,366.44. We of course used round numbers.

In addition to this the City now owes $20,000.00 in School Bonds, voted to put additions to Caldwell High School. When the people voted $20,000.00 for this purpose they limited it to that sum. Yet, there was expended in that building the sum of about $28,000.00. It is not our purpose to raise a row. We simply give the facts.

Don't borrow your neighbor's paper. Of course they are glad for you to have it to read, but you should be a regular subscriber to the paper yourself. We want you on our list.

A twenty-two-dollar-an-hour government ought to be some government.

SPEAK OUT, GENTLEMEN.

Messrs. Albin Cornelison, Jno. F. White, Frank L. Russell and Walter Q. Park are all candidates for the Legislature. So far as we have been able to learn, only one of these gentlemen has clearly stated what his position will be on the question that is paramount in the public mind at this time—THE QUESTION OF SUBMITTING TO THE PEOPLE A VOTE ON STATE-WIDE PROHIBITION. To submit the proposition, does not mean a vote either in favor of or against it. It is democracy pure and simple to submit the question and let the people decide for themselves by their ballots. The people have a right to know how the man they send to the Legislature stands on the question of submitting to the people the proposition. We respectfully call upon each and every one of the aspirants to the office to state publicly and in plain terms how he stands and how he will vote on the question. The people have a right to know. We shall see that this article is brought to attention of each of the candidates and we expect to publish their answers. If any candidate refuses or neglects to answer in our next issue, we shall call attention to that fact. We intend so far as lies within our power, that the people shall know how each one stands on this paramount question in order that they may know for whom and for what they are voting.

VERY IMPORTANT.
The constitution of this State requires certain qualifications for a member of the Legislature. It reads as follows: 32. Qualifications of Members. "No person shall be a Representative who, at the time of his election, is not a citizen of Kentucky, has not attained the age of twenty-four years, and who has not resided in this State two years next preceding his election and the last year thereof in the county, town or city for which he may be chosen." We inquire where has the Hon. John F. White resided for the last seven or eight years? This is exceedingly important to us. Madison county is entitled to have a member from MADISON.

GOING FAR BACK
No president since the foundation of the government has stuck to his job more closely than Woodrow Wilson, according to the record. It is a significant fact that he has spent more consecutive days and a larger proportion of his entire time in Washington than did either of his predecessors.—Harrodsburg Herald.

Because a citizen, public, or private, endorses a candidate who favors temperance, is no reason that said citizen can be termed as a Prohibitionist. As we have remarked before, it is extremely unfortunate that this State-wide question was ever injected into politics. But it has taken the place of politics in both of the old parties and how can it be otherwise, until it is settled for once and all. Has one part of the State a right to say that whisky shall not be sold and in another part that it shall? We, for one, do not want to see liquor wiped out of Jessamine and then sold in an adjoining county. State-wide is the only remedy for this.—Jessamine News.

A Paducah pastor was so old-fashioned that he resigned because the churches were advertising in the papers to increase their attendance.

He evidently belongs to that class of "Long Ago" preachers who depended for publicity on a strip of paper tied to a string announcing "Preaching at every candle light."

Col. W. P. Walton seems to be making a get-away race for the Democratic nomination for Secretary of State. Col. Walton is a runner from the word go. He has all the requisites for the proper conduct of the office and we trust this country will give him a big vote.—Blue Grass Clipper.

Next week we expect to publish some of the financial facts relative to our city, but you must promise us in advance that you won't read it on Sunday—not right to deprecate the Sabbath with sulphuric words.

The Kentucky Distillers Association could do more to protect their business by forcing the saloon-keeper to respect the law than by protesting against prohibition.—Elizabethtown News.

Let President Wilson keep this in memory. The people who are pressing for war with Germany, never expect to shoulder a musket. They expect to sell munitions of war.

Even if worry kills more people than work, we doubt if some of these people who owe us their subscriptions for several years are in danger.

At the rate of $22.00 an hour, we are showing some speed—but we never "git no whar."

Last year the city paid $1,531.00 for a health department. Wonder where they kept it?

Clark County Fair.
The Clark County Fair Association, which will be held in Winchester, July 28, 29, 30, and 31, 1915, gives promise of being the greatest County Fair in Kentucky, this year. They have closed their race program of three trotting races each day, with 116 entries of the best horses in the United States. Their running race will be closed on July 27th, and they are expecting not less than 50 entries in the running race, which is to be a daily event at the fair. They are giving a $250.00 saddle horse stake, which will be shown on the second day of the fair. They are also giving liberal harness, combined and colt stakes. Music will be given by a band of 15 pieces. They have secured cheap rates from the various railroads that run into that city. In fact, taking their program into consideration, they have one of the greatest that was ever in Kentucky, and beyond question, the greatest that will be seen at any of the fairs this year.

SWATTING THE LIQUOR SERPENT.
All the ministers of the city took occasion to swat the liquor serpent from their pulpits Sunday. While some of them class it as a moral question and not political, they all swatted it as a great evil.
Now, the view point of the question as to whether it is political or moral, is no ice. It is a question that is the subject of legislation and great political questions arise from a discussion of what is proper legislation. So long as the question comes up for adjustment by the force of law, on which question there is a division of opinion, it is political and can't be otherwise. But it makes no difference whether the club you throw is branded political or moral; be sure that you throw the club and aim it at the head of the varmint. Mashing it's tail won't kill it.
METHODIST.
At the Methodist Church, July 25th, 10:45 a. m., the subject will be "An old prayer, which is now up-to-date." Come and hear a real live and vital discussion of some practical things.

ATTENTION DEMOCRATS!

The fight is on. Saturday, August 7, will soon be here when the Democrats will name their candidate for the LEGISLATURE. Every good Democrat with the pride and welfare of his party and county at heart should do all in his power by both vote and influence to help elect the best all round man and the one who will mean the most to his party in November and in the next two years.

Walter Q. Park is the Man

WE DEMOCRATS CAN NOMINATE HIM. So let's see to it that each one of us do our part to that end—the good people of the county are behind him.

- 1 There is no doubt whatever that he is a Madisonian and of the truest type.
- 2 No one special man or concern is running him, so when elected he will not be obligated whatever, except to best serve his people.
- 3 He is a Christian gentleman and without the least embarrassment whatever, can be supported by the best and Christian people of the county.
- 4 He is the only candidate in the race running on the foundation and fundamental doctrine of Democracy—a government of, for, and by the people—and believes that they should vote on and settle the much discussed liquor issue, as they should all other great issues.

Good Folks, Be Careful====Don't Throw Away Your Vote

Partnership Dissolved.
The firm of Allman and Pigg, grocers and meat market men, has been dissolved by mutual consent. Mr. Pigg retiring. Mr. Allman will continue business at the same stand. Jno. Allman is too well known to need comment at our hands, always the same even tempered, courteous and obliging gentleman. He wouldn't feel natural not to be serving groceries and meats to his many Richmond friends and customers. Here's wishing him the success that such a man deserves. We are not advised as to how Charley Pigg will put in his time, so accustomed as he has been to work for many years past.

Pullins-McCord
Prof. Pullins and Hon. D. A. McCord met on the Barnes mill pike last week and while each tried very hard to miss the "other," their machines ruled it otherwise. They are both still living which is the one thing to be thankful for. Mr. Pullins was riding a motor cycle and Mr. McCord was driving his machine. These two machines had an affinity and fondly embraced each other "right in the middle of the road." The motor cycle, being the lighter, was worsted. Its gallant rider went down with it but is now able to be out.

Stray Steers.
Two steers got mixed with mine on court day. One is yellow weighing about 325 pounds. The other is a red one weighing about 300. Some black paint marks on the necks. Phone 6 four rings.

Insurance Men Meet
A gathering of insurance men from Winchester met at Boonesboro Thursday and had a delightful time. Many themes were discussed. The welcoming address was delivered by W. V. Bennett; response by D. E. Hynes. Boonesboro has become a famous place for summer outings and meetings of all kinds.

Kentucky S. S. Association.
The Kentucky Sunday School Association, composed of all religious denominations in the State, has arranged a "Summer School of Methods" to be held this year at Estill Springs, July 24 to 31. All officers of schools as all interested in Sunday School work are urged to attend. Geo. A. Joplin, Genl. Secty.

Feels Better.
A "dry" man always feels better than a "wet" one. Vote for Walter Q. Park for Representative, only "dry" man on the ticket.

Our esteemed friend, W. W. Broadbush authorizes us to announce him as a candidate for the office of councilman for District Number One.

Died.
At his home in Cincinnati Monday morning at 9:30, Mr. William Ferrill of acute indigestion. He was for a time an employee of the Indian Refining Co. of this place. His two sisters, Mrs. Joe Arnold and Mrs. Jas. Turner, of this city went to his bedside at once, to both of whom the sympathy of friends is extended.

The Exploits of Elaine

A Detective Novel and a Motion Picture Drama

By ARTHUR B. REVE
The Well-Known Novelist and the Creator of the "Craig Kennedy" Stories

Presented in Collaboration With the Pathe Play and the Electric Film Company
Copyright, 1914, by the Star Company. All Foreign Rights Reserved.

SYNOPSIS.

The New York police are mystified by a series of murders and other crimes. The principal clue to the criminal is the warning letter which is sent the victims, signed "The Clutching Hand." The latest victim of the mysterious assassin is Dr. Goddard, the insurance president. In the famous scientific detective, to try to unravel the mystery. What Kennedy accomplishes is told by his friend Jayson, newspaper man. After many failures attempts to put Elaine and Craig Kennedy out of the way the Clutching Hand has at last found a home for the Chinese criminals. The Chinaman, from the secret of the whereabouts of Dr. Goddard, then he gives the lawyer a solution which will suspend the investigation. Kennedy reaches Bennett's side just after he has lost consciousness.

EIGHTEENTH EPISODE

THE VENGEANCE OF WU FANG.

Elaine was still in the power of Wu Fang. Kennedy had thwarted the criminal in his search for the millions. But any joy that he might have derived from this success was completely obscured by the fear that Wu might wreak some diabolical vengeance on Elaine.

Not were Kennedy's fears unfounded. As Wu and Long Sin had secretly reached the secret apartment where the subtle Chinaman began to contemplate revenge.

Long Sin was smoking a Chinese pipe, resting after his hurried flight, while Wu, the tireless, was seated at the table at the other end of the room. At last Wu Fang took up a long Chinese dirk from the table before him, looked at it, turned it over, felt its edge. He rose and deliberately walked across to a door leading into a back room.

On a couch lay Elaine, and with her, as a guardian, was Weepy Mary. As Wu, the Serpent, entered and advanced slowly toward Elaine, she roused back from him in deadly fear.

Slowly he drew from under his robe the wicked dirk. He felt the edge of it again and gazed significantly at Elaine.

It was a critical moment. Just then Long Sin entered. "One of the five millions waits outside," he reported simply, with a bow.

Wu understood. It had been a pleasant fiction of his that although he did not, of course, absolutely control such a stupendous organization, he could, by his subtle power, force almost unlimited allegiance from the simple people of that district of China from which he came.

Out in the front room, just a moment before, a knock at the door had disturbed Long Sin, and a Chinese servant had announced a visitor. Long Sin had waved to the servant to usher him in, and a poorly clad coolie had entered.

He gazed at Long Sin faced him. "Where is the master?" he had asked. Long Sin had not deigned to speak. With a mere wave of his hand he indicated that he would be the bearer of the message, and had followed Wu through the door of the back room.

So, almost by chance, Wu was interrupted in the brutal vengeance which he had first come to his mind. He heathed the knife and, still without a word, went back into the main room, leaving a nod to Weepy Mary to guard Elaine closely.

Wu eyed the coolie until the newcomer could almost feel the master's penetrating gaze, although his head was bowed in awe. Quickly the coolie thrust his hand under his blouse and drew forth a package. With another bow he advanced.

"For your enemies, O master," he said, handing the package over to Wu.

The coolie started to open the package, removed the paper wrapper, and then a silk wrapping inside. Finally he came to a box, from which he drew a leather pouch, each operation conducted with greater care as it became evident that the contents were especially precious in some way. Then he took from the pouch a small vial.

"What is it?" demanded Wu Fang, as the coolie displayed it.

"The coolie drew forth now a magnifying glass and a glass slide. Opening the vial with great care he shook something out on the slide, then placed it under the lens.

"Look!" he said simply.

Wu bent over and looked. Under the lens what had formerly seemed to be merely a black speck of dirt became none other of the most weird and uncanny little creatures to be found in all the realm of nature. It seemed to be all legs and feelers moving at once. A normal person would have looked at the creature only with the greatest repugnance. Wu regarded it with a sort of unholly fascination.

"And it is?" he queried.

"What the white man calls the African tick which carries the recurrent fever," answered the coolie deferentially.

A flash of intense exultation seemed to darken Wu Fang's sinister face.

"Wait," he said to the coolie, as he moved slowly again into the back room.

Long Sin had remained there. With Weepy Mary he was guarding Elaine, when Wu Fang re-entered. Elaine was thoroughly aroused by this time.

"Suffering is a state of mind," Wu said in a low tone, "and I have decided that it would be poor revenge on me to harm you. You are free."

Nothing could have come as a greater surprise to Elaine.

"Do you—do you really mean it?" she asked, scarcely able to believe what her ears heard.

Wu merely nodded, and with a wave of his hand to Long Sin indicated that Elaine was to be released.

She moved herself to take several steps toward the door. She had scarcely crossed half the room.

"Wait!" ordered Wu sharply.

Was he merely torturing her, as a cat might torture a mouse? She stopped obediently, afraid to look at him.

"This will be the vengeance of Wu Fang," he went on impressively. "Slowly, one by one, your friends will weaken and die, then your family, until finally only you are left. Then will come your turn."

"Look!" said Kennedy,

fully holding down the receiver on the hook, he unscrewed the case which holds the diaphragm, while with his clever fingers he held the rest of the instrument intact. Then he removed from his pocket the vial which the coolie had given him and placed its contents on the diaphragm itself.

Quickly now he replaced the receiver and, having finished their work, Long Sin and Wu Fang stealthily crept out.

A second time, as we approached our apartment after the visit to Elaine, we were too excited to notice the limousine in which were Wu and Long Sin. But no sooner had we entered than Long Sin left the car with a final word of instruction from his master.

Upstairs, in the apartment, Kennedy began hurriedly to pack, and I helped him as well as I could. We were in the midst of it when the telephone rang and I answered it.

"Hello!" I called.

There was no response.

"Hello, hello!" I repeated, raising my voice.

Still there was no answer. I worked the hook up and down, but could get no reply, and finally, disgusted, hung up.

A moment later, I recall now, it seemed to me as though some one had stuck a pin into the lobe of my ear.

We had scarcely got back to work when the telephone bell jangled again, and a second time I answered it.

"Is Mr. Kennedy there?" came back a strange voice.

I handed the instrument to Craig.

"Hello," he called. "Who is this?"

No response.

"Hello, hello!" he shouted, working the hook as I had done and, in my case, there was still no answer.

Neither of us thought anything of it at the time, but now I recall that I did see Kennedy once or twice press the lobe of his ear as though something had hurt it.

We did not know until later that in a pay station down the street our arch enemy, Long Sin, had been calling us up and then, with a wicked smile, refusing to speak to us.

At about a week later that I came home late one night from the Star, feeling pretty done up. Whatever it was, a violent fever seemed to have come on me suddenly. The next morning when I woke up I felt a lassitude that made it quite hard to get up.

Finally, feeling no better, I decided to see a doctor. I put on my clothes with a decided effort and went out.

The nearest doctor was about half a block away and we scarcely knew him, for neither Kennedy nor I are exactly sickly.

He sounded me and pounded me, talked a little while on generalities, diet and exercise, then walked over to a cabinet, and emptied out a few pills into a little paper box.

"Take one every hour," he said. "Cut your cigarette to three a day, and don't drink coffee. Four dollars, please."

I paid him and went back to the apartment, my head soon in a whirl from a new onset of the fever.

I managed to get back into my bathrobe, and to myself down on the divan, propped up with pillows. I had taken the pills, but they had no more effect than sugar or milk. By this time I was much more delirious and was crying out.

I saw faces about me, but I did not see the faces which were actually out by our hall door. Wu Fang and Long Sin had waited patiently for their revenge. Now that they thought sufficient time had elapsed, they had stolen silently to the apartment door. While Long Sin watched, Wu listened.

"The white devil has it," whispered Wu Fang, as he rejoined his fellow conspirator.

How long I should have remained in this state, and in fact how long I did remain, I don't know. Vaguely, I recall that our acquaintance, Johnson, who had the apartment across the hall, at last heard my cries and came in.

Somehow or other I knew the state I was in. I knew it was Johnson, yet it all seemed unreal to me. With a great effort I gathered all my scattered wits and managed to shout out, "Telegraph Kennedy—Rockledge."

At about the same time, up at Rockledge, Kennedy and Elaine, with her cousin, Mary Brown, were starting out for a horseback ride through the hills. They were chatting gayly, but Kennedy was forcing himself to do so.

In fact, they had scarcely gone half a mile, when Kennedy, who was riding between the two and fighting off by sheer nerve the illness he felt, suddenly fell over in half a faint on the looked inside. Then he looked closer.

There was something peculiar about it and he picked up a blank sheet of white paper, dusting off the diaphragm on it. There, on the paper, were innumerable little black specks.

Just then, outside, Doctor Goddard's car drew up and he jumped out, holding his black bag. "Not being acquainted with what we were going through, Goddard did not notice the almond-eyed Chinaman who was watching down the street."

"How do you do, doctor?" greeted Craig faintly at the door.

"What seems to be the difficulty?" inquired the doctor eagerly.

"I don't know," returned Craig, "but I have my suspicions. I'm too ill to verify them myself, so I've called on you. Look at Jameson first," he added.

While his assistant gathered the apparatus, the doctor wrote: Miss Anne Septix, 301 W.—th St.

Please go at once to the apartment of Craig Kennedy, —th Clarendon Ave. Surgical case.

GODOWSKI, M. D.

Turning to His Microscope.

per. There, under the lens, he could see the most remarkable, almost microscopic creature, all legs and feelers, a most vicious object.

Weak though he was, he could not help an exclamation of exultation at his discovery, just as Godowski had finished with me.

"Look!" he now called, calling the doctor. "I know what the trouble is, Godowski."

He had started to tell, but the exorher of his neck. Elaine and Mary reined up their horses.

"Why, Craig," cried Elaine, startled, "what's the matter?"

"The sound of her voice seemed to arouse him. He braced up. 'Oh, nothing, I guess,' he said with a forced smile. 'I'm all right.'"

It was no use, however. They had to cut short the ride, and Kennedy returned to the house to drop down in an easy chair on the porch, while Elaine hovered about him sollicitously.

They summoned the country doctor, but it took him some time to get out to the house. Suddenly a messenger boy rode up on his bicycle and mounted the porch steps.

"Mr. Kennedy," he announced, looking about and picking out Craig naturally as the person he wanted.

Kennedy nodded and took the yellow envelope while Elaine signed for it. Listlessly he tore it open. It read:

Craig Kennedy, Care Wellington Brown, Rockledge, N. Y.

Jameson very ill. Wants you. Better come.

The message seemed to rouse Kennedy in spite of his fever. His face showed keen alarm, which he endeavored to conceal from Elaine. But her quick eye had caught the look.

"I must see Walter," he exclaimed, rising rather weakly and going into the house.

How he ever did it is still, I think, a mystery to him, but he managed to pack up and, in spite of the alternating fever and chills, make the journey back to the city.

When at last Craig arrived at our apartment, it must have seemed to him that he found me almost at death's door.

Ill himself, Kennedy threw himself down for a moment, exhausted. "When did this thing come on, Walter?" he asked of Johnson.

"Yesterday, I think, as nearly as I can find out," replied my friend.

Craig was decidedly worried. "There's only one person in New York to call on," he murmured, pulling himself out of bed and getting into the living room as best he could.

"Is that you, Godowski?" he asked over the telephone. "Well, doctor, this is Kennedy. Come over to my apartment, quick. I've a case—two cases, for you."

Godowski was a world-famous scientist in his line and had specialized in bacteriology, mainly in tropical diseases.

As Kennedy hung up the receiver he made his way back again to the bedroom, scratching his ear. He noticed that I was doing the same in my delirium.

"Has Walter been scratching his ear?" he asked of Johnson.

Johnson nodded. "That's strange," considered Craig, thoughtfully. "I've been doing the same."

He turned back into the living room and for a moment looked about. Finally his eye happened to fall on the telephone and an idea seemed to occur to him.

He went over to the instrument and unscrewed the receiver. Carefully he examined the interior of the instrument, and was so great that he could hardly mumble.

"Here—look—on this paper," he cried. "From the telephone."

He had risen and was handing the paper to the scientist when his weakness overcame him. He fell flat on his face on the floor and dropped the paper, spilling the contents.

Godowski, now thoroughly alarmed, bent over Craig. But the delirium had overcome Kennedy, too.

Unable to make any sense out of Craig's broken wanderings, Godowski took no time in taking samples of our blood.

Then he hurried away to his laboratory in his car. As he did so, however, Long Sin leaped into a taxicab which was waiting, and followed.

In Godowski's laboratory, where he was studying tropical diseases, the bacteriologist set to work at once to confirm his own growing suspicions.

From a monkey which he had there for experimental purposes, he drew off some blood samples. Then, with the aid of his assistant, he took the blood samples he had obtained from us.

The monkey's blood, under the microscope, showed a fall of rather elongated, wriggling germs, of a peculiar species. In and out they made their way among the blood corpuscles, each like a dart aimed at life itself.

Then he took the samples of our blood. In them, too, he found the same elongated, wriggling germs—carried by that gruesome tick!

"The spirillum!" he muttered. "They are infected with African recurrent fever. The only remedy is atoxyl, administered intravenously, after the manner of Professor Ehrlich's famous '606.'"

Godowski had rung the call box hastily for a messenger, when Long Sin, who had managed stealthily to creep up to the doctor's laboratory window, scowled through at the action—then moved away.

While his assistant gathered the apparatus, the doctor wrote: Miss Anne Septix, 301 W.—th St.

Please go at once to the apartment of Craig Kennedy, —th Clarendon Ave. Surgical case.

GODOWSKI, M. D.

The boy arrived finally and the doctor gave him a generous tip, to hurry with the note.

He had turned the corner, however, when Long Sin appeared. Subtly he played on the boy's credulity to get him to deliver a note of his own—even offered to deliver the boy's note for him. The flash of a five dollar bill made the rest easy.

As the boy disappeared on a fake errand, Long Sin, with the real note, hurried downtown, smiling wickedly.

"They have discovered the fever, master," he reported in the den.

Wu was beside himself with rage. Before he could speak, however, Long Sin spoke up with Godowski's message. "But I have this," he added.

It took merely a glance to suggest to Wu a new plan of action. He rose and moved quickly into the back room. "Come," he ordered Weepy Mary. "You must dress up as a nurse—immediately." Quickly she donned one of the numerous disguises, while Wu planned his campaign.

"Here," he directed when she was ready, handing her a little vial. "You must infect every instrument the doctor uses on Kennedy and Jameson—see?"

She nodded, and a moment later was on her way uptown.

Meanwhile Godowski himself had arrived at our apartment, much to the relief of our friend Johnson, and was unpacking his instruments.

"Quickly he improvised two operating tables and placed one of us on each. Then, with his assistant, he put on his white robe, mask, gloves and other precautions for asepsis, setting out the apparatus for the intravenous administration of the drug that would kill the spirillum."

They had finished their preparations and were waiting for Miss Septix. "She ought to be here now," muttered Godowski impatiently, looking at his watch.

Just then a cab drove up outside. "Perhaps that is she!" he exclaimed.

"It must be,"

A few moments later the door of the apartment opened. His face showed his disappointment. It was a stranger.

"Miss Septix is ill," she introduced, "and sent me to take her place."

The doctor looked about. "Very well, then," he said briskly, seeing his preparations. "Are you ready to go ahead?"

She nodded and threw off the coat that covered her immaculate white uniform.

The specialist plunged wholeheartedly into his work of saving us now. "Hand me that needle, please," he directed the false nurse.

She moved over to the table near by and took it up, pausing only long enough to dip it secretly into a vial she carried with her.

"Please hurry," repeated the doctor. She turned from the table and handed it to him. He adjusted it and already held it poised for the thrust which was not to cure but to poison us further.

"Weepy Mary!" cried a frightened voice at our door.

Elaine had been deeply alarmed by the sudden illness of Kennedy and the message from Jameson. No sooner had Kennedy gone than it flashed over her that Wu Fang had predicted something like this.

"The threat!" she exclaimed, seeking her cousin. "Mary, I must go to the city—right away."

On the next train, then, she had disappeared back to New York.

One glance at the improvised hospital was enough to alarm her. But the sight that had transfixed her was of a woman whose face she remembered well, though Kennedy and I had never seen her.

"Please, Miss," began Godowski's assistant, trying to quiet Elaine, while Godowski turned in vexation to his work.

"No, no!" repeated Elaine. "This woman is no nurse. She is a criminal!"

Godowski paused. It was true he did not know the woman. He gazed from Elaine to Weepy Mary in doubt. The game was up. Weepy Mary dropped a piece of gauze which she had soaked in the solution from the vial which Wu had given her and bolted for the door.

So sudden was her flight that no one was quick enough to stop her.

The excitement, more than ever, alarmed Elaine now. "Tell me," she appealed to Doctor Godowski, "what is the matter?"

"In some way," he replied quickly, "they have become infected with the bite of an African tick which carries spirillum fever."

Godowski raised his hands in despair. "I was just about to start," he cried. "Everything is ready. I can't send for another nurse. Every minute counts."

Elaine had thrown off her coat and hat. Her sleeves were up in a moment, and before the doctor knew what she was about she was scrubbing her hands in the antiseptic wash.

"Only—show me—what to do," she cried. "I will be the nurse!"

Several days later, when he had recovered sufficiently from the diabolical attack that had been made upon us, Kennedy was again at work in the laboratory, and Elaine was writing.

Our speaking tube sounded, and I knew that it was Elaine and Aunt Josephine.

"How do you feel?" inquired Elaine anxiously, as she almost ran across the laboratory to Craig.

"Really?" she repeated anxiously. "Look!" he said, turning to his microscope.

He turned some blood from a test tube in our electric incubator and placed a drop on a slide. It was some of the blood infected by the germs carried by the tick.

"That is how our blood looked—before the new nurse arrived," he smiled, while Elaine looked at it in horror.

Then he picked his arm and let a drop smear on another slide.

"Now look at that—perfectly normal," he added.

"Oh, I'm so glad," she exclaimed radiantly.

"Normal—thanks to you. You saved us. You were just in time," cried Craig, taking both her hands in his.

He was about to kiss her, when she broke away. "Craig," she whispered, blushing and looking hastily at us.

Aunt Josephine and I could only smile at the disgusted glance Craig gave us, as he thrust his hands in his pockets and wished us a thousand miles away at that moment.

WISE MOVEMENT

Democratic Administration inaugurates the wisest move that has been put into effect for many months.

The Treasury Department hereafter will construct postoffices and other Federal buildings in accordance with the needs and importance of places where they are located instead of spending all that Congress appropriates.

It long has been a criticism that unimportant places often got expensive Federal buildings out of proportion to their needs. In some instances expensive post-offices have been built in towns where postal receipts were not sufficient to sustain them.

Postoffices, Assistant Secretary Newton announced, will be considered in four classes: Those having receipts of more than $800,000 a year; those having between $60,000 and $80,000; those having from $15,000 to $60,000, and those below $15,000.

By following the same plan on acquiring sites the department, on 136 purchases, spent $500,000 less than Congress authorized.

Dies in Arkansas.

In the Christian Evangelist is a notice of the death of Dr. W. A. Yantis which occurred in Arkansas last week. The older residents of Richmond remember Dr. Yantis very pleasantly when years ago he lived in this city and occupied the place now known as Stockton's Drug store. He was a well known dentist and had many warm friends as he seems also to have had in his new home. He was a life long member of the Christian church and at the time of his death was eighty-one years of age.

Tennis

An exciting game of tennis was played on the Normal campus Friday afternoon between Mr. William Burnam and Prof. Chas. A. Keith.

Mr. Burnam was the holder of a handsome silver loving cup which he won three years ago when he defeated Mr. Walter Reid of the Normal. He was called on to defend this cup by Prof. Barnard also of the Normal. This he did successfully and this year Prof. Keith challenged him to defend it again.

Four games were played by them. Prof. Keith winning the first. Burnam won the last three.

This victory is fine and the handsome trophy is now Mr. Burnam's.

The games were played in the presence of a large crowd who enjoyed them very much.

ESTIMATED YIELD

Of Tobacco Crop for Year 1915. Increase Predicted Over Last Year. Kentucky Placed At 340,015 Acres Of The Weed.

"BUMPER" TOBACCO CROP.

The tobacco crop of the United States for 1915 will be considerably larger than that of 1914. This fact is clearly established by the reports received from well posted correspondents in every tobacco growing county in Kentucky, Ohio and Indiana and from authoritative sources in the various important tobacco producing States.

In Kentucky, which is the largest tobacco-producing section in the world, a total of 340,015 acres has been set, as against 329,840 acres planted in 1914, making an increase this year of 8,175 or slightly more than 2 per cent. The Kentucky acreage will probably yield a total of 321,114,250 pounds as against 310,683,500 pounds last year, making an increase for 1915 of 10,430,750 pounds or slightly more than 3 per cent.

A liberal estimate of the burley crop of 1915 may be made as follows:

Kentucky, 160,000 acres; Ohio, 10,000 acres; Indiana, 10,940 acres; West Virginia and scattering sections, 8,000 acres; total, 188,940 acres. The total estimated burley acreage at planting time last season was 197,770 acres. Thus a decrease of 8,830 acres or almost 5 per cent, is indicated.

The harvested burley acreage in 1914 was 199,305 acres, some counties having overestimated the damage done by the drought early in the season at planting time, and it is likely that with favorable growing seasons throughout the current summer the final burley yield will be at least within 5 per cent of the crop of 1914. The harvested burley areas of previous years follow: 1913, 196,111 acres; 1912, 213,401 acres; 1911, 183,089 acres; 1910, 284,000 acres; 1909, 254,897 acres.

The average burley yield per acre fluctuates between 900 and 1,000 pounds, and, estimating the total crop on a basis of 925 pounds to the acre, a total yield of 174,769,500 pounds is indicated for 1915. Last year the estimated burley yield at planting time was 182,937,250 pounds and the harvested production was 200,379,200 pounds. The harvested yield in 1913 was 176,869,500 pounds. In 1912, 205,131,000 pounds; 1911, 174,485,700 pounds; 1910, 258,478,000.

Office of Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, Frankfort

The Automobile Department at Frankfort will contribute to the State road fund for the year 1915 about $120,000. This is double the receipts of any previous year.

When the 1915 plates were ordered, more than a year ago, it was estimated that 10,000 pairs would be sufficient but more than 15,500 have already been issued.

The total receipts of the office to date this year are $102,000, and this would have been very materially increased but from the fact that 5,750 old cars and all new cars have paid only the proportionate part of the fee for the license to run to Jan. 1st, 1916.

When the Acts of the General Assembly of 1914 became effective there were 5,750 licenses that did not expire Jan. 1st, but ran into 1915. These were the series "G" licenses with tags of black with letters in white. This has caused much confusion as there were two kinds of tags good during the first six months of 1915 and many people were laboring under the impression that a large number of cars were being operated on improper license. This confusion was removed on June 15th and tags now in use should show the date "1915" on the right hand end of the plates.

Local officers in many places are arresting all motorists seen with improper tags, and to avoid trouble all drivers should see that cars are registered for this year and are carrying tags with a white background with red letters.

In 1916 when all cars now in the state must renew their licenses and pay the full fee for the year there should be collected for the highways of the state not less than $175,000 and probably much more.

Fight in Jail.

Two prisoners in the county bastille fell and fought Thursday morning John Crawford, of color who is in jail for disorderly conduct under judgment of the city court was the victim. His assailant was Roscoe Brumfield who wielded a knife with deadly effect. He cut Crawford in the head and right side so severely that the attending physician, Dr. Bosley says that there is but very slight chances for his recovery. He was removed to the home of his sister in this city.

Farmers of this section are very much alarmed over so much ruin for fear of losing their wheat, oats and meadows. Much corn is also damaged. The district school of this place commenced last Monday with Miss Brock, of Waco, as teacher, good attendance last week. The protracted meeting of the Christian Church at this place closed last Friday evening. The meeting was conducted by Dr. H. L. Calhoun, of Lexington, assisted by D. H. There being 44 additions to the church, 16 by baptism, the remainder by relation and membership. The whole Church was edified and built up in most holy faith, and people for miles around attended regularly to hear the clear forceful and eloquent exposition of the plain gospel. Rev. ESTILL COUNTY NEWS.

(Clipped from the Tribune)

The campaign now in progress in this county for the past month for eradication of the hook worm disease, is finding much favor with the people. Up to date over 1,000 persons have been examined, 60 per cent of whom have been found infected with this dangerous intestinal parasite.

A dispensary has been held at the court house all week, the public is welcome to come and see the specimens analyzed, and view the worm and eggs through the microscope. When a person is found to be infected the treatment is furnished free.

Deputy Sheriff E. P. Flynn and Deputy Jailor Millard Horn, Tuesday conveyed Green Davidson and Jesse Shepherd to Frankfort where they are to serve two years each in the penitentiary.

Davidson was convicted for killing his cousin, Bev. Davidson.
Mr. E. P. Campbell and Mrs. Lena Wallace have each purchased a Ford automobile. Clyde Gaines who owns a Ford has purchased another, an Overland. Watch us grow.

After much persuasion of his numerous friends, Coleman Benton has finally consented to make the race on the Democratic ticket for the office of Circuit Court Clerk, of Estill county.

Capt. W. T. Short was here from Richmond this week campaigning the county in behalf of his race for State Senator. Capt. Short has a great many strong supporters in this county though the Republican organization in the county is supposed to be lined up for Dr. Evans.

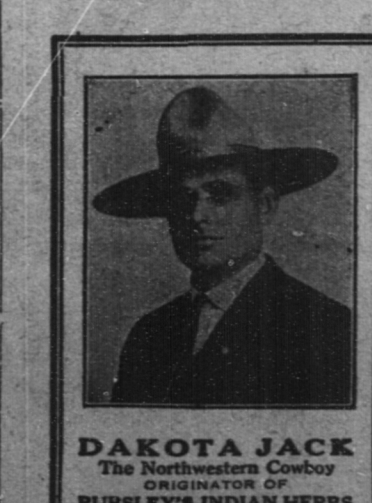

The people of this section are delighted with the appeal being made by Hon. J. C. W. Beckham and Judge E. C.

O'Rear for state wide prohibition, the only safe thing for this great Commonwealth.—Estill Tribune.

For Assessor.

Mr. J. S. Gott has announced for Assessor of Madison county. Mr. Gott is a successful young merchant of Berea. He is sober and industrious and attends closely to business. He comes from a long line of Democratic ancestry and is himself a true blue Democrat. His large family connections and friends have been voters not office holders, not one has ever held office. He now asks the Democrats of this county to give him the office of Assessor, promising in return that in the discharge of his duties he will be fair to the county and to every individual taxpayer in the assessment of his property.

American farmers, confronted with feeding the world while Europe is at war, have record acreage of all principal crops. There is an area of 109,273,000 of corn—larger than ever before—and it is expected to produce 2,814,000,000 bushels, according to the Department of Agriculture's estimate. The outlook for a billion bushels of wheat crop continues good.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

CUCUMBER SALADS.

LUNCH.
Molded Salmon, German Dressing.
Cucumber Salad. Rolls.
Toad Tea. Cup Cakes.

CUCUMBERS combined with other vegetables make dainty and cooling summer salads. Some ways of preparing these are suggested here:

With Mint Sauce.

Plain Cucumber Salad.—Peel the cucumber thinly and cut it into very thin slices. Dust these with pepper and salt and add to them a very little finely minced onion. Then add two large tablespoons of salad oil and half a gill of freshly made mint sauce. Mix all well together. Stand in a cool place for twenty minutes or half an hour and then serve.

Cucumbers, French Style.—Slice a green cucumber very thin, put it in a basin with half a ounce of salt and pickle for four hours. Drain well and arrange the slices on a dish with pepper, oil, vinegar and a tablespoonful of chopped herbs, such as parsley, chervil and tarragon put over the slices.

Quite a Mixture.

Cucumber and Chicken Salad.—It is by no means necessary to have celery for chicken salad, as other vegetables more available in summer give it an excellent and novel flavor. Crisp, fresh cucumbers, for instance, combine well with the chicken, and French peas added make it very tempting. Use two large cucumbers and one can of peas to every quart of chicken.

Appreciated by Picnickers.

Cucumber Sandwich Salad.—Pare a slender cucumber with a knife that will scissor the edges of the slices. Make a rich paste of cream cheese, chopped olives, a few nuts, the juice of a small onion and some finely chopped celery. Mix well and season with salt and paprika or cayenne. Spread this paste between two slices of the cucumber and lay the thin sandwiches on lettuce leaves. Cover with mayonnaise, garnishing the salad with small strips of green pepper and olives.

A Rich Feed.

Cucumber Rings.—Take one cucumber, a little oil, vinegar, pepper and salt, a little minced meat, one hard boiled egg, parsley, two tablespoons of cream. Cut cucumber into pieces one inch long, leaving the ends in. Alternate strips of green by removing some of the rind in strips. Let these soak for a short time in a mixture of oil, vinegar, pepper and salt. Remove the centers and fill with savory mixture of minced meat, chopped yolks of eggs, parsley and cream, all delicately seasoned. Garnish with the chopped whites of eggs and beetroot cut into small dice.

HOW TO USE BEETS.

BEETS stewed and dressed with butter and seasoning may be served satisfactorily with almost any menu. In addition to this popular way of serving them, there are many others whose merits need only be known to be appreciated.

Novel Ways of Stewing.

Stewed Beets.—Stew beets in the oven until they are tender; take them out and when cold remove the outside. Cut them in slices and pour a little oil over them. Then add to them into a stewpan with as much gravy as will cover them. Simmer for half an hour. Thicken the gravy before serving with some cream in which you have mixed a slice or two of beet beaten in a mortar.

Combined With Potatoes.

Beets With Piquant Sauce.—Take two or three beets and wash them clean. Be careful not to break any of the fibers; otherwise they will lose their color in boiling. Boil till tender with two or three onion small onions. When they are done take off the skin and the outside fibers of the beets and slice down. Stew in the following sauce for ten minutes. Take an ordinary sized onion, mince it small and fry it brown in a little butter. Add a little flour and brown that also. Then put in a ladleful of soup stock, the juice of a lemon and some salt and pepper. When it is done serve the beets in the center, the beets and sauce around, and serve hot.

Plain Boiled Beets.—After thoroughly washing a quart of young beets put them on to boil in cold water. Add a small handful of salt and two tablespoons of vinegar. Cover the saucepan and cook for one hour or perhaps ten minutes longer than an hour. It may be necessary to add a little boiling water after three-quarters of an hour if the first has boiled away. When done skin out the beets into a pan of cold water and rub off the skins. Then put them into a stone jar (glass will do) and strain over them the liquid in which they were boiled. The vinegar keeps this from turning dark. Spread two tablespoonsful of powdered sugar on the beets, cover and put away in a cold place.

The officers of the State Fair have shown very wise judgment in their selection of Mrs. Harry McCarty of Nicholasville as superintendent of the Woman's Department. Mrs. McCarty is a woman of splendid executive ability and will prove a valuable adjunct to this honor thrust upon her.—Jessamine News.

INVESTIGATE!

AN APPEAL TO THE DEMOCRACY OF MADISON COUNTY.

I want to talk briefly to every man and woman in Madison County who believes in the fundamental principles of democracy. And in giving this so-called talk, I am not appealing to the prejudices and passions of those persons who align themselves with the Democratic party, but to all persons who listen to reason and are the advocates of democracy in its highest, broadest and best sense. In other words, I am making a personal appeal to every person in Madison County who is interested in the Moral, Intellectual and Financial betterment of the County and State.

On August 7, 1915, the people of Madison County will be called upon to register their choice of the candidates for the various state offices. They have not only to choose between parties, but to choose between candidates. The selection between parties is not so difficult, but to make a choice between the various candidates is one of the arduous duties that confronts the citizen. This is the proposition I want to discuss with the people.

At the coming primary election you will have to choose one of four Democratic nominees of the Democracy party for Representative of Madison County in the next General Assembly of Kentucky. This is a very important office—one of the most important within the gift of the people. The people, therefore, should give serious consideration to the duties of a Representative for the office, and endeavor to select only the man best qualified for the place. Competency, sobriety and some respect necessary qualifications and every voter should see that the candidate possesses these necessary qualifications. How can you expect to have good laws enacted unless you do? If you are indifferent in the selection of the man whom you choose to perform the duties of a Representative, in all probability he will be negligent in the discharge of his duties. If he is, and shirks his duties to you, Mr. Citizen, have no right to complain—you are simply gathering the fruits of your indifference.

As one of the four candidates for Representative, an appealing reason and common sense and not to passion and prejudice. I am confident my campaign upon a high plane I have no criticisms to offer. Every candidate in the race is my personal friend. I do not look upon either of them as an opponent, but as a running mate, each however, trying to honorably obtain the nomination. I am somewhat handicapped and in some respects working to a disadvantage. I have no relatives in the county—no one to lend me encouragement. I am going single-handed, and appeal to the voters solely upon my past reputation. I am willing to place my record alongside of the "bunch," and account a thorough and right investigation by the people. Upon my record I expect to stand, and rise or fall with it. If the people will investigate, I am perfectly willing to abide by their decision.

For the past twenty years I have been preaching the gospel of democracy, and I don't believe there is a single person who will question my democracy. I have been editor of three different newspapers and I have always upheld the principles enunciated by the Democratic party. I have assailed the cunning and hypocrisy of the ruling party, fearlessly, yet at all times fairly and justly. I have endeavored to purge my own party of all gross, believing that by keeping ourselves pure and clean, we would be better fortified to combat our opponents. I have always worked for a pure and unadorned democracy, for the rights and the uplifting of humanity. While I believe the principles espoused by the Democratic party are the best in existence, there are thousands of independent and patriotic voters outside of the Democratic ranks. And it is the duty of those who claim allegiance to the Democratic party to so conduct themselves as to gain the confidence and respect of every human being who is not grouped under our glorious banner.

That is the basis upon which I have ever labored; that is the foundation upon which I stand. I am making an effort to see the voters of the County and present my claims to them. Owing to climatic conditions and some business matters which required my attention, I have not been enabled to make as aggressive a canvass as I had hoped. But I shall to the very best I possibly can under conditions, I feel greatly encouraged in my race, and if the people will investigate the competency of the candidates as they should, I will have no cause for worry. The reports coming from the different sections of the county are most gratifying to me. At the present time, I feel very confident of being nominated and elected.

In conclusion, let me say: I want to be elected Representative of Madison County, I can only be nominated and elected by the vote of the people. I want every person who reads this article to regard it as a personal talk and personal appeal to vote for me. I want every person who reads this appeal to show it to neighbors and friends, and then I want every person to begin a most rigid investigation of my character as to my competency, sobriety and fitness. After a thorough investigation, if I measure up with the other candidates, then I ask some consideration. If I fall short in my dimensions—if my democracy is questionable—if my moral character is bad—if my intellectual qualifications do not meet the requirements—then vote for the man you believe best qualified for the place. Could anything be fairer?

Yours respectfully,
FRANK LESLIE RUSSELL.

Lesson IV.—Third Quarter, For July 25, 1915.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, 1 Kings viii, 22-30. Memory Verses, 23, 24—Golden Text, Isa. l, 10.—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

In some respects the ark of Noah, the tabernacle of Moses and the temple of Solomon were the three most remarkable buildings in the history of the world, for God Himself was the sole designer of each, and each was intensely typical of things to come concerning the Saviour, salvation and the kingdom. The great truths of our redemption have been made more plain to the people by the study of the temple of Solomon. The temple was the place of prayer, and it was the place of the presence of God. The temple was the place of the presence of God, and it was the place of the presence of God. The temple was the place of the presence of God, and it was the place of the presence of God.

Solomon began to build the temple 480 years after the Exodus (1 Kings vi, 1). If you add up the figures of Acts xiii, covering this period, you will make it 573, but if you subtract the 93 years of the oppressions of all Israel in the days of the Judges, the accounts will agree perfectly. Out of fellowship with God man has lost time, whether with a nation or an individual (Num. vi, 12; Job xxiv, 29). Solomon's temple was finished in the eleventh year of his reign, and it was plundered just thirty-four years after, in the fifth year of Rehoboam (1 Kings vi, 37; 2 Chron. xiv, 25, 26). This was just the time between the birth of the Messiah, the true temple, and His death. Zerubbabel built the second temple after the return from Babylon. At the time of his building, Herod had been rebuilding that temple forty-six years (John ii, 20). The last eight chapters of Ezekiel tell of a temple yet to be built when Israel shall be restored. That tabernacle and temple were dwelling places for God in the midst of Israel. God was in Christ. Every true believer is now His temple (1 Cor. vi, 19, 20). The church, His body, now being built, is the temple in which we are for the present most interested (Eph. ii, 19-22). All the materials for the tabernacle and temple were willing offerings (Ex. xxv, 2; xxv, 29; 1 Chron. xxix, 3, 9, 17). Christ gave Himself willingly for us (Heb. x, 5-9; John vi, 38). We must be willing offerings, keeping nothing back.

Remember the only foundation (1 Chron. iii, 1) spoken of in a previous lesson, the great atonement suggested by Moriah and Ornan's threshing floor and the silver sockets of the tabernacle boards and see 1 Cor. iii, 11. If we are truly in Christ, we are building on His place and the holy of holies of the temple now being built (1 Pet. ii, 5), but as in the temple of our lesson every stone was made ready in the quarry or somewhere for its particular place in the building (1 Kings vi, 7), so, while the believer is a stone in the precious blood of Christ, we are being made fit for our places in the building by the daily training here. When the temple was finished and the ark set in its place in the holy of holies, the glory of the Lord filled the house, so that the priests could not stand to minister (1 Kings viii, 4-11). It is our privilege thus to be Spirit filled, so that we may be able to minister. Our lesson verses are a little part of Solomon's great prayer at the dedication of the temple, in which he glorified God, saying, "Lord God of Israel, there is no God like Thee, who keepeth covenant and mercy with Thy servants that walk before Thee with all their heart" (xxiii). He also praised God for fulfilling His word to David and asked Him to continue to do so (verses 24, 26). He asked that the Lord that His eyes might be open night and day toward the house he had built for His name (verses 27-30).

He presented seven separate petitions concerning different matters, saying of the temple, "Hear Thou in Heaven" or "Hear Thou in Heaven Thy dwelling place" (verses 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42). He pleaded that He would do for Israel as His inheritance, whom He had separated from among the people of the earth, and that He would maintain their cause at all times, as the matter might require, or, as in the margin, the thing of a day in his day (verses 51, 53, 59). This petition is found also in the story of the Jews (Ex. xvi, 4, margin) and elsewhere, reminding us that His care is sure day by day as He has taught us to pray. His desire was "that all the people of the earth may know that the Lord God and that there is none else" (verse 69). So it was also with Joshua and David and Hezekiah (Josh. iv, 24; 1 Sam. xvii, 46; 11 Kings xix, 19), and so it will be with the kingdom of God, and we shall find that not one word has failed of all that God has spoken. He shall not fail nor be discouraged, and He shall see of the travail of His soul and be satisfied.

Before he began to build he said, "The Lord my God hath given me rest on every side, so that there is neither adversary nor evil occurrent" (chapter v, 4), and now he says, "Blessed be the Lord that hath given rest unto His people Israel; * * * there hath been no word of all His good promise, which He promised by the hand of Moses, His servant" (verse 56). So also it is written in Josh. xxi, 45; xxiii, 14, and so it will be with the kingdom of God, and we shall find that not one word has failed of all that God has spoken. He shall not fail nor be discouraged, and He shall see of the travail of His soul and be satisfied.

And For Three Summers Mrs. Vincent Was Unable to Attend to Any of Her Housework.

Pleasant Hill, N. C.—"I suffered for three summers," writes Mrs. Walter Vincent, of this town, "and the third and last time, was my worst."

I had dreadful nervous headaches and prostration, and was scarcely able to walk about. Could not do any of my housework.

I also had dreadful pains in my back and sides and when one of those weak, sinking spells would come on me, I would have to give up and lie down, until it wore off.

I was certainly in a dreadful state of health, when I finally decided to try Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I firmly believe I would have died if I hadn't taken it.

After I began taking Cardui, I was greatly helped, and all three bottles relieved me entirely.

I fattened up, and grew so much stronger in three months, I felt like another person altogether."

PROMINENT MAN PRAISES TANLAC

State Superintendent of Printing Voluntarily Pays Tribute to New Remedy.

Frankfort Ky., July 20.—A high State official is one of those who have come forward voluntarily to add his voice to the chorus of praise for Tanlac, the peerless preparation. This is Moses R. Glenn, State Superintendent of Printing whose office is in Frankfort.

"I think I had tried every remedy there is before I learned about Tanlac," he said recently. "I had a stomachic affection, and could sleep very little because I swallowed the accretions from my throat. Of a morning I woke from a troubled slumber with a choking sensation, and would cough and spit all day."

"As soon as I began taking Tanlac I experienced an improvement. I had little faith at first that any medicine would help me, and so I am the more ready and eager to say a word about this preparation. As a rule I am conservative and unwilling to give my endorsement to anybody or anything, but this is an exceptional case. The itching in my ears is gone. I sleep soundly, and the accumulation in my nose and throat has disappeared. I want others to know how much good Tanlac has done me."

Tanlac is now being introduced in Richmond at H. L. Perry's drug store. Adv.

Election Officers

Mr. R. C. Stroll, State election commissioner, has given out a letter stating that the old county boards should appoint the officers of the election for the coming primary. The new ones cannot qualify until after the primary.

An Appeal—May It Not Go Unheeded.

The Women's Charity Organization has again asked us to call the attention of the merchants and citizens of the town to the great improvement that could be made in the appearance of the town by cleaning up the streets, and keeping them clean.

Especially will this apply to Railroad Street, which is the main business street and the one that is seen by the greatest number of strangers, and by which the town is often judged. We are satisfied the filthy condition of this street is frequently due to thoughtlessness on the part of many—they do not stop to think how the dirt they throw on it is going to look. Often the paper from around packages, fruit peelings and other trash are thrown upon the street. These the wind blows about here and there until the result is most distressing to the sight of those who feel a pride in the looks of the town. Garbage cans should be provided at intervals along these streets for the reception of such trash. This would be a wise investment of a little money.

Right here we should like to add an other suggestion that should receive the immediate attention of many. And that is the cleaning out of privies, vaults and other back premises. Now that hot weather has come such places that have had no attention recently have become the breeding places of innumerable flies and other vermin, as well as the source of noxious and offensive odors. Persons having such places, for the good of the community, if not for their own satisfaction, should lose no time in putting them in a sanitary condition.

Suppose one of those epidemics, due to dirt and filth, were to break out in Midway, causing much sickness and many deaths. Would your conscience escape the pangs of remorse at the thought that your carelessness helped cause the scourge?

The old fashioned wife who used to kill her husband with a gun now has a married daughter who kills her husband with something she cooks in a chafing dish.

The trouble with the man who thinks he is as good as anybody is that he thinks he is a whole lot better. A woman will fly into a rage and bust up half the dishes because her husband won't believe her when she insists that she hasn't a bad temper.

In spite of all the old saws to the contrary, we have always found that money makes more trouble for those who haven't any than it does for those who have plenty.

What has become of the old fashioned man who used to tell you that you talked like a Philadelphia lawyer? You can't make the young folks believe it, but it is about a million times easier to get married than it is to stay married.

When Hot Weather Oppresses.

When you suffer from a feeling of oppression, when a natural keen and alert brain seems dull and stupid, when bodily strength seems lacking and you are inert and languid—do not blame it altogether on hot weather. They give stout persons prompt relief from that uncomfortable bloated and congested feeling sold everywhere.

Signals of Distress

Richmond People Should Know How to Read and Heed Them

Disordered kidneys give many signals of distress.

The secretions may be dark, containing sediment. Passages are sometimes frequent, scanty, painful. Backache is often present day and night.

Headaches and dizzy spells may occur. Weakened kidneys should receive quick help. Don't delay! Use a special kidney remedy.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys, backache and urinary disorders. Richmond evidence proves their worth. M. M. Grinstead, 438 Walnut St., Richmond, says: "I had pains through my back and kidneys and the action of my kidneys was irregular and annoying. I used Doan's Kidney pills, procured from Middleton's Drug Store, and they cured me. I feel that I should tell others what a fine kidney medicine they are."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Grinstead had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

According to the census there are 552,136 children of school age in the rural school districts, a gain of 14,765 over last year. The census of the rural and graded schools, colored, show 52,140 children for this year as against 52,550 for last year, making a loss of 119 children. This is attributed to the fact that so many of the negro population of the rural districts are moving into the cities. The total number in 1895 was 728,000.
